STUDIO FOUNDERS

Andrew Noble is a freelance Software Developer who has provided services for a variety of large financial institutions. He established Twiddly Studio as an outlet for him to express his creative side.

With the release of Tilt & Sprout in June 2011 he realised one of his primary ambitions of becoming a self-published indie game developer.

Andy Nicholls is the Creative Director of Twiddly Studio. He has spent most of his career in web development with large financial companies, studying how customers interact with technology and refining the user experience. Being an avid gamer he has always been inspired by game design. When presented with the opportunity to come onboard as Twiddly Studio's Creative Director it was a great opportunity to take his career in a new exciting direction within a creative, ever developing industry.
